Module 4 Launching Communication and Language through Sign

About the Authors

Stacey Culver, Primary Author

Stacey Culver, MS, CCC-SLP, formerly worked at Boston Children's Hospital providing communication skill evaluations and language therapy for deaf and hard of hearing children and was a member of the hospital's cochlear implant team. She earned her bachelor's degree in audiology and speech and language pathology from Brigham Young University and her Master's degree in speech and language pathology from Gallaudet University. Culver was featured in The Everything Baby Sign Language Book in photographs demonstrating various signs. She is currently a busy mother with a growing family and happily provides guidance in the area of communication development to family and friends.

Janis Cole, Contributing Author

Janis Cole, MEd, served as a contributing author, script consultant, deaf actor talent scout, and ASL director during filming for this webinar project. In Cole's 30 plus years of professional experience, she has been a cultural/deaf studies educator, ASL trainer, ASL translator consultant, interpreter, community advocate, creative arts consultant, actor, director and producer. She previously worked on the clinical team at Boston Children's Hospital. As a PhD candidate in the Department of Interpretation, Cole spends a lot of time on issues such as ASL literature, ASL literacy and social justice. She has co-led the community forum at the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf national conference since 2009, and is currently the president/CEO of Les Deux 2 Productions.
